When California is on your mind, what does it look like?

It's not an exaggeration when someone says California has the highest mountain in the continental U.S., the largest economy, the biggest bird, the oldest and biggest trees, the lowest and hottest deserts, the tallest waterfall, the largest mountain system in a single state, the nation's highest dam, and the most productive agriculture. The lowest spot in the continental U.S. – Badwater Basin in Death Valley, 256 feet below sea level, is fewer than 90 miles from the highest spot – Mount Whitney at 14,505 feet. None of that is bragging. It's our California.

When you think about the incredible beauty, richness and diversity of California – whether places or people – in your represented district, what treasured images come to mind?

Can you help us tell California's story?

We have an opportunity, with the Annex Project, to plan for how visitors will experience a day in the People's House. Imagery can help our guests visualize the splendor of California and see a reflection of themselves and their homes.

What comes to mind?

The following are offered to illustrate pictures that convey the beauty and variety of California's natural endowment.

Please submit images:

Please send images of your represented district to annex@asm.ca.gov. Include the name of any notable landmark, relevant description of location including the county, distinctive plant types or the occasion.
